TO TEACHERS.

THE following Exercises were originally arranged by Mr. and Mrs. Eves, for their own Pupils; they have however been induced to publish them at the request of several members of the profession, who expressed themselves in terms of high commendation of the manner in which they had been prepared. Convinced from experience of their utility, the Authors sincerely believe, that by the use of these Exercises, infinitely more progress will be made by the Pupils, in Grammar, History, Geography, &c., than by the method usually adopted in imparting instruction in these branches. The plan they would recommend, and which they have found eminently successful, is, 1st, To prepare written answers to be submitted to the Teacher for correction.

2dly, When corrected, to be entered with the respective questions in an Exercise book, under the inspection of the Teacher, this book to be carefully kept as a reference.

By the adoption of this system, the Pupil will rapidly improve in Spelling, Writing, and Composition; and the subject of the exercise will be found to be indelibly impressed on the memory. The Questions are so formed that, with very few exceptions, the Pupils may obtain answers from any History, Grammar, &c., in their possession: but when Questions occur which cannot be answered by reference to the usual School-books, the Teacher can refer (if requisite) to the Key and dictate the reply. To save trouble to the Pupil and the Teacher; in each Exercise on Sacred History the Book and Chapter are given; in English History the Reign is named; and in Roman History, the Date, as given in Goldsmith's History.

IN DRAWING A MAP, the Pupil should insert three of the chief towns, rivers, and mountains, and afterwards repeat them to the Teacher, naming also the boundaries of the country, and the latitude and longitude of the principal city.

As a test of the utility of these Exercises, the Authors have, when opportunity offered, compared the amount of information possessed by Pupils who have used them, with that acquired on the same subjects by those who have studied them in the ordinary way; and the result has been, that the former have invariably been found to possess a decided superiority.

N.B. The Figures preceding each Exercise refer to the Key.
